A DRUMMER'S OPINION

Of the Climate of the Salt River Valley.

He Engages in a Dissertation on the Subject of Flies and Residents of El Paso.

A Detroit drummer engrosses his opinion of Tempe as follows:

To a stranger just coming from the land where the blizzards "bliz" and the cyclones "cyke," the beautiful and balmy weather of the Salt River valley is extremely interesting. Coming from Michigan's great city, where at high noon-tide you paddle around in slush over your shoetops; participating to the fullest extent in a so-called "January thaw," and coming home at night get hopelessly tangled up in a howling snow storm—coming from such a place, I say, the effect is soothing and restful. I haven't felt so well in months and I am satisfied to stay with you and for a while assume a life of "innocuous desuetude" which I am sure will in a few weeks result in renewed health and vigor.

The Tempeites are nice people and treat a stranger with consideration. Therein they are different from inhabitants of some other western towns in which I have been. At El Paso, for instance, if the salt seas were to rise over their shores and deluge the land, the natives would be in their element for they are all sharks.

By the way, the flies here are very sociable—they stay right by you. Charley Smith goes about the house every day with an insect powder that knocks 'em silly. The fly lights on your nose in a sort of a dazed fashion and never knows when he gets enough. After fruitless endeavors to brush him off, you literally have to grapple with him, throttle him and throw him out the window.

If you had nice, sweet drinking water here I would be happy beyond expression. Being unaccustomed to the heat, I have frequently that rich, dark-brown taste in my mouth, a thirst with a regular Pima complexion. Your water does not afford adequate relief and in such instances I am compelled to step into the barroom and follow out the popular idea of irrigation. I feel it coming now; won't you step inside with me and "gargle?"

TEMPE ECHOES.

Yesterday was the beginning of a new term at the Normal school.

This sort of weather makes the ice men smile, as their day has arrived.

F. L. Brill and John Dennis, of Phoenix, were visitors in Tempe yesterday.

Hotels are doing a rushing business these days and hardly a night passes on which some guests are not turned away from lack of room.

Ben Goldman yesterday bought lot 13 in block 52 and intends to remove the frame building which now adjoins the Andre building to this lot.

Farmers along the Mesa and Consolidated canals are once more happy, as both canals are now full and able to fill the demands of their patrons.

The following guests were registered at the Gregory hotel yesterday: M. E. Smith, Chicago; R. Brown, Denver; S. Fairchild, Kansas City; W. S. Cox, Chicago; M. Adams, San Francisco.

A. P. Newcomb, the western representative of the Lorillard Tobacco Co., with headquarters at Denver, was here yesterday making note of what houses handled their goods and also why they did not.

Dan. H. Priest, the genial representative of Balz Clymer & Co. of San Francisco, was here yesterday calling on his numerous business friends and soliciting orders for the cigars which he handles.

Traffic between here and Phoenix has again resumed its regular course, as teams can now be ferried across without any delay. A good road has been constructed to the ferry landing which is situated about a half mile above the former crossing.

Mr. Price accompanied Ben Goldman to his range yesterday. The range is situated about sixteen miles from town and as the weather was warm and the drive a dusty and long one, they proposed to make a picnic of it and went prepared accordingly.

The horse attached to Morse's delivery wagon became unmanageable when opposite Col. Schultz's house yesterday forenoon and ran away, but only for a short distance as the wagon ran against a tree spilling all the meat out of the wagon and preventing the further progress of the horse.

New street lamps have been placed in front of the Tempe hotel. Were lamps of this kind placed on the corners of the main streets it would add greatly to the comfort and safety of strangers as well as residents. Under the present system of lighting, a person not acquainted with the location of the ditches and crossings is liable to step into them or fall and get hurt.

Tempe hotel guests yesterday were T. Rosenstein, San Francisco; Ed. Goldsmith, San Francisco; J. Meyerstein, San Francisco; Joseph A. Winslow, Bethany, Mo.; A. S. Trippel, Globe; J. J. Haigh, Phoenix; Pira Hall, New York; M. C. Wall, Phoenix; A. P. Newcomb, Denver; C. E. Eichelberger, Harqua Hala; D. H. Priest, San Francisco; W. P. Thomas, San Francisco.

The two women who on the previous day were arrested for disturbing the peace and fined $12 and $25 respectively were given twenty-four hours in which to find friends who would pay their fine. Being unable to secure the money

Constable Fellows yesterday afternoon took them to Phoenix and turned them over to the sheriff who placed them in jail to serve out their fine.

W. P. Thomas, special agent and adjuster for the Commercial Union Assurance company, was here yesterday looking at his company's risks in Tempe and Mesa. Mr. Thomas makes a yearly tour over the territory and has good opportunities for noting the improvements in the different sections, and nowhere did he find as much building going on or as much improvement as on this side of the river.

Rival Railroad Enterprises.

The Goodwin boys drove to Mesa yesterday morning to see about locating their terminal point. They had not been gone a half hour when a buggy conveyed Mr. Armstrong and Colonel Masten to the same place. With two rival companies, both seeking to put a road through Mesa, can now feel assured of having railway facilities in a short time.

The imperial cholera commission in Germany announces its discovery that wine—claret or hock—will kill the bacilli of cholera in a few minutes. Tea will kill them in an hour.

A Monstrous Gorilla.

A gigantic gorilla, measuring seventy inches across its chest and with shoulders as wide as those of three men united, was shot by Lieut. Morgan's party recently at a place twenty-five days' march from the coast of Cameroon, Africa. The creature was so heavy and unwieldy that it required the efforts of sixteen men to drag it to the station.

THE TEMPE LAND CASE.

An Injunction Issued Against Dugas Bros.

Both Sides Preparing for a Legal Battle Whose Outcome is Eagerly Awaited.

The latest move made in the game of chess on the Normal School land, section 16 as the chess board, was made late last Monday night when an injunction issued by Court Commissioner Hammond, during the absence of Judge Gooding in Yuma, was served on Dugas Bros. by the sheriff to restrain them from further grazing their sheep on this land.

Both the Tempe Land and Improvement company and the Dugas Bros. are making a strong fight for the possession of this land and judging from the formidable array of counsel now pitted against each other, every move will be hotly contested. The Improvement Co., is entrenched behind Ben Goodrich, the well known lawyer of Los Angeles; M. H. Williams, district attorney of Phoenix; R. P. Williams, a late addition to the Arizona bar from the east and W. J. Kingsbury, the well known Tempe advocate.

Dugas Bros. have on their side, Mickey Stewart, the little giant of the north; Judge Woodward, the well known jurist of Phoenix; P. B. McCabe a rising young lawyer of Tempe and the well known firm of Baker & Campbell.

When our representative called on Mr. Dugas for an interview all that that gentleman would state was that "The sheep are doing well." Up to last evening no further move had been made, and both sides were resting on their oars.

Great interest has been aroused in this case and every new move will be looked forward to with interest. General opinion differs greatly as to its final outcome.

For artistic shaving and hair cutting visit the Fashion barber shop. Mill avenue, opposite Gregory's.
